The Last Laugh

Dangerous Websites

When you start a website you need to have an address, but often the names are embarrassing. Here are some websites that really do exist:

'Experts Exchange' is a website for expert computer programmers who want to exchange information. That is an excellent idea, but the address or 'domain name' is:
www.expertsexchange.com

Australia was responsible for the next one. The 'Mole

Station Native Nursery¹ has its own website:
www.molestationnursery.com

Italy also has a strange website address. The Italian branch of Powergen is called 'Powergen Italia.'

Its website is www.powergenitalia.com

If that's embarrassing, then so is 'Speed of Art,' a site for designers. Its address:
www.speedofart.com²

And it gets worse: there is 'Pen Island,' a website specialising in pens. Its website: www.penisland.com

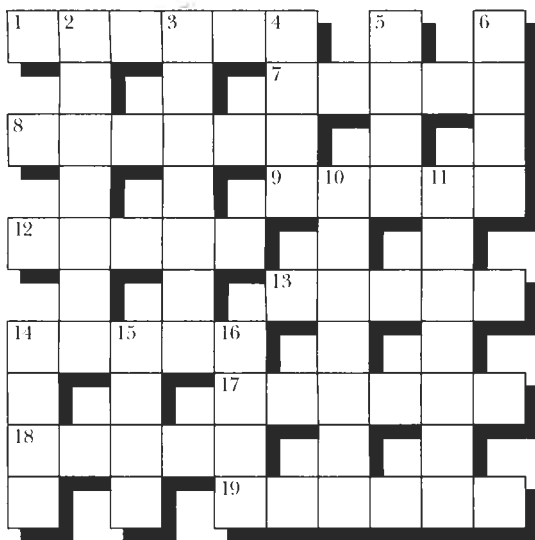

Then there's a site for therapists. The name is 'Therapist Finder,' but the website is: www.therapistfinder.com³

The next website is for readers with a rich vocabulary. It comes from Hollywood and it explains which agents represent which film stars. It's called 'Who Represents?' but the website is: www.whorepresents.com⁴. And if you don't get that one⁵, try our glossary!
